3. The application is resisted by ld. APP for the State who submits that there is no doubt on the identification of the applicant as he was apprehended at the disclosure of Naresh @ Mental who stated that he used to obtain injections from one Budha who also runs a dental clinic in his building.

The applicant was apprehended on the pointing of co-accused Naresh @ Mental. Insofar as Section 42 is concerned, he referred to the decision of Supreme Court in Union of India v. Mohd. Nawaz Khan reported as (2021) 10 SCC 100 to submit that Section 42 is a matter of trial. In the context of Section 52A, Id. APP has relied upon the decision of Coordinate Bench of this Court in Quentin Decon v. Customs reported as (2023) SCC OnLine Del 3329, against which SLP preferred has also been dismissed. It is lastly stated that five witnesses have been examined. Learned counsel however states that only 3 witnesses are examined.

4. I have heard the learned counsels for the parties and have also perused the material placed on record.

5. It is observed that the applicant in the case is presently 61 years of age and has remained incarcerated since 04.08.2021. It is further informed that the FSL report is yet to be received and thus, the trial is likely to take some time.

6. At this stage it is apposite for the Court to refer to decision of the Supreme Court in Union of India v. K.A. Najeer reported as (2021) 3 SCC 713, wherein it was stated that if a timely trial is not possible, courts are ordinarily obligated to release the undertrial on bail and statutory restrictions do not exclude the discretion of Constitutional courts to grant bail on grounds of violation of Fundamental Rights enshrined in Part III of the Constitution of India. While the said judgement was passed in the context of This is a digitally signed order.

12. Even in the case of special legislations like the Terrorist and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act, 1987 or the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985 ("the NDPS Act") which too have somewhat rigorous conditions for grant of bail, this Court in Paramjit Singh v. State (NCT of Delhi), Babba v. State of Maharashtra and Umarmia v. State of Gujarat enlarged the accused on bail when they had been in jail for an extended period of time with little possibility of early completion of trial. The constitutionality of harsh conditions for bail in such special enactments, has thus been primarily justified on the touchstone of speedy trials to ensure the protection of innocent civilians. xxx

15. This Court has clarified in numerous judgments that the liberty guaranteed by Part III of the Constitution would cover within its protective ambit not only due procedure and fairness but also access to justice and a speedy trial. In Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee (Representing Undertrial Prisoners v. Union of India, it was held that undertrials cannot indefinitely be detained pending trial. Ideally, no person ought to suffer adverse consequences of his acts unless the same is established before a neutral arbiter. However, owing to the practicalities of real life where to secure an effective trial and to ameliorate the risk to society in case a potential criminal is left at large pending trial, the courts are tasked with deciding whether an individual ought to be released pending trial or not. Once it is obvious that a timely trial would not be possible and the accused has suffered incarceration for a significant period of time, the courts would ordinarily be obligated to enlarge them on bail. xxx

17. It is thus clear to us that the presence of statutory restrictions like Section 43-D(5) of the UAPA per se does not oust the ability of the constitutional courts to grant bail on grounds of violation of Part III of the Constitution. Indeed, both the restrictions under a statute as well as the powers exercisable under constitutional This is a digitally signed order.

Whereas at commencement of proceedings, the courts are expected to appreciate the legislative policy against grant of bail but the rigours of such provisions will melt down where there is no likelihood of trial being completed within a reasonable time and the period of incarceration already undergone has exceeded a substantial part of the prescribed sentence. Such an approach would safeguard against the possibility of provisions like Section 43-D(5) of the UAPA being used as the sole metric for denial of bail or for wholesale breach of constitutional right to speedy trial. xxx"

6. While considering a case where the accused had undergone custody of more than two years, Supreme Court in Jitendra Jain v. Narcotics Control Bureau reported as 2022 SCC OnLine SC 2021, the Supreme Court observed as under:-

"xxx

3. Though it is a case of commercial quantity and allegations levelled against the petitioner are serious in nature, but having regard to the fact that he is in custody for 2 years and conclusion of trial will take time, we are inclined to release the petitioner on bail.

4. The petitioner is , accordingly, ordered to be released on bail, subject to his furnishing bail bonds to the satisfaction of trial court.

xxx"

7. Again in Rabi Prakash v. State of Odisha reported as 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1109, where the accused had remained incarcerated for more than three and a half years, the Supreme Court while releasing the applicant on bail observed that:-

6. Consequently, while directing that the petitioner shall be released on bail on his furnishing bail bonds to the satisfaction of the Trial Court...

8. More recently in Man Mandal and Anr. v. State of West Bengal reported as 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1868, while taking into account continued custody of more than two years, the accused was granted bail. The relevant extract of observations is extracted hereunder:-

"xxx

5. Learned counsel appearing for the State submitted that in view of the statutory restrictions under Section 37 of the NDPS Act and the quantity being commercial in nature, the present special leave needs to be dismissed.

6. Taking into consideration the fact that the petitioners have been incarcerated for a period of almost two years and the trial is not likely to be taken up for hearing in the immediate near future, we are inclined to grant bail to the petitioners.

7. The petitioners are directed to be released on bail in connection with aforesaid FIR, on such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Trial Court.
