It is alleged that after logging into their ICEGATE ID, the complainant found that the unknown accused had generated E-Script scrip of 50,65,414/- and further sold the stolen scrip to unknown companies.

3. During enquiry of the complaint, it was found that similar complaints had been received on earlier occasions. 6. It was also found that certain stolen scrips of Incredible International were also transferred to Vaibhavi Tex Fables Pvt. Ltd. and further to Tam India Pvt. Ltd. The Director of Tam India Pvt. Ltd. joined investigation and disclosed during examination This is a digitally signed order.

On being examined, Yogesh Chalthanwala also stated that the applicant had purchased the scrips from his links and also utilized the stolen scrips in Vaibhavi Tex Fables Pvt. Ltd.

8. The learned counsel for the applicant submits that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case and has no connection with the concerned offence.

9. He submits that the applicant has been implicated in the present case merely on account of a business rivalry.

10. He submits that the applicant is willing to cooperate with the investigation. He submits that the applicant had not appeared before the concerned Investigating Officer after receiving the notices under Section 41A of the CrPC on 30.08.2023 and 12.09.2023 as he is an ordinary resident of Surat and could not appear at such short intimations.

11. The learned Additional Public Prosecutor for the State vehemently opposes the grant of any relief to the applicant. He submits that custodial interrogation of the applicant is required for recovery of the cheated amount and to unearth the whole conspiracy.

12. He submits that the applicant has not co-operated with the investigation, even though, notices under Section 41A of the CrPC were issued on him on 30.08.2023 and 12.09.2023.

13. He submits that Non bailable Warrant has been issued against the applicant on 21.09.2023. The applicant has also not This is a digitally signed order.

The authenticity of the order can be re-verified from Delhi High Court Order Portal by scanning the QR code shown above. The Order is downloaded from the DHC Server on 05/04/2024 at 23:11:53 disclosed the aforesaid fact in the present bail application.

14. He points out that the applicant is involved in another FIR for a similar crime, that is, FIR No. 31/2022 for the offences under Sections 419/420/467/468/471/120B of the IPC and Section 66C of the IT Act.

15. I have heard the learned counsel for the parties.

16. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Pratibha Manchanda v. State of Haryana : (2023) 8 SCC 181 has observed that:

"The relief of anticipatory bail is aimed at safeguarding individual rights. While it serves as a crucial tool to prevent the misuse of the power of arrest and protects innocent individuals from harassment, it also presents challenges in maintaining a delicate balance between individual rights and the interests of justice. The tight rope we must walk lies in striking a balance between safeguarding individual rights and protecting public interest. While the right to liberty and presumption of innocence are vital, the court must also consider the gravity of the offence, the impact on society, and the need for a fair and free investigation. The court's discretion in weighing these interests in the facts and circumstances of each individual case becomes crucial to ensure a just outcome."

(emphasis supplied)

17. At this stage, prima facie, it appears that the stolen scrips were ultimately utilized by Vaibhavi Tex Fables Pvt. Ltd., which is a company that is allegedly run by the applicant. The statement of the Director of Tam India Pvt. Ltd. also seems to prima facie suggest that the applicant was involved in further sale of some of the stolen scrips.

18. While it is averred that the applicant has been falsely implicated in the present case on account of a business rivalry, no material has been placed on record the substantiate the said contention or to dissuade the allegation that the applicant runs This is a digitally signed order.

The authenticity of the order can be re-verified from Delhi High Court Order Portal by scanning the QR code shown above. The Order is downloaded from the DHC Server on 05/04/2024 at 23:11:53 Vaibhavi Tex Fables Pvt. Ltd. and was involved in the sale of the stolen scrips to Tam India Pvt. Ltd.

In view of the same, prima facie, it does not seem that the accusations have been made with the object of injuring or humiliating the applicant.

19. In such a case, at this stage, prima facie, it seems that the applicant is the main beneficiary of the alleged stolen scrips and is actively involved in the commission of the crime.

20. It is relevant to note that the applicant has another FIR lodged against him for a similar crime.

21. It is also pertinent to note that the applicant vide notice dated 30.08.2023 was directed to appear before the Investigating Officer on 05.09.2023, however, the applicant submitted a request through his counsel that he had to visit abroad. On being pointedly asked, the learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the applicant never travelled abroad. It seems that the same was merely an excuse to evade investigation.

22. The fact that the applicant has failed to join investigation in the present case despite dismissal of his pre-arrest bail application by the learned Trial Court makes him a flight risk.

23. While it is correct that a great amount of humiliation is attached with arrest, the Court ought not to grant relief to an accused person who is not cooperating with the Investigating Authority and is deliberately evading investigation.

24. Arrest is a part of procedure of the investigation to secure not only the presence of the accused but also to serve other purposes in the aid of investigation. The grant of pre-arrest bail to some extent interferes in the sphere of investigation of an offence and hence, the court must be circumspect while exercising such power for grant of pre-arrest bail. The pre-arrest bail is not to be granted as a matter of routine and only when the This is a digitally signed order.

The Order is downloaded from the DHC Server on 05/04/2024 at 23:11:53 court is convinced that circumstances exist to resort to such extraordinary remedy that an order can be passed.

25. It is settled law that custodial interrogation is qualitatively more elicitation oriented than questioning a suspect who is well ensconced with a favourable order under Section 438 of the CrPC. The Hon'ble Apex, in the case of State v. Anil Sharma :

(1997) 7 SCC 187, has also underlined the importance of custodial interrogation as under:

"6. We find force in the submission of the CBI that custodial interrogation is qualitatively more elicitation-oriented than questioning a suspect who is well ensconced with a favourable order under Section 438 of the Code. In a case like this effective interrogation of a suspected person is of tremendous advantage in disinterring many useful informations and also materials which would have been concealed. Success in such interrogation would elude if the suspected person knows that he is well protected and insulated by a pre-arrest bail order during the time he is interrogated. Very often interrogation in such a condition would reduce to a mere ritual. The argument that the custodial interrogation is fraught with the danger of the person being subjected to third- degree methods need not be countenanced, for, such an argument can be advanced by all accused in all criminal cases. The Court has to presume that responsible police officers would conduct themselves in a responsible manner and that those entrusted with the task of disinterring offences would not conduct themselves as offenders.

8. The above observations are more germane while considering an application for post-arrest bail. The consideration which should weigh with the Court while dealing with a request for anticipatory bail need not be the same as for an application to release on bail after arrest. At any rate the learned Single Judge ought not to have side-stepped the apprehension expressed by the CBI (that the respondent would influence the witnesses) as one which can be made against all accused persons in all cases. The apprehension was quite reasonable when considering the high position which the respondent held and in the This is a digitally signed order.

26. Keeping in mind the nature of allegations, and the fact that the applicant is prima facie the beneficiary of the offence, this Court is of the opinion, that custodial interrogation of the applicant ought not to be denied to the investigating Authority and any order of pre-arrest bail would harm the investigation and would impede the prospects of unearthing the truth.

27. It is not a fit case for exercise of discretion under Section 438 of CrPC.

28. The present application is, therefore, dismissed.

29. It is, however, made clear that any observations made in the present order are only for the purpose of deciding the present bail application, and should not be treated as an opinion on the merits of the case and also should not influence the outcome of the trial.
